“ Andrew, Maritza and Beth, funny how you speak well of your mom now but wouldn't speak to her while she was alive. I've wanted to say things to you all for the longest time. You treated your mom something awful. She gave of herself for you and you all turned your backs on her. She's gone now and is finally free from her loneliness and pain. She doesn't cry anymore. She had lots of people who loved her but you weren't among them.
