

Katherine M. "Kate" Martin

October 14, 1939 - March 31, 2025

Mineral Point – Katherine M. “Kate” Martin, On March 31, 2025, surrounded by a small gathering of her family, Kate passed away peacefully to be with The Lord following a series of complications linked to the treatment of underlying health problems.

As a testament to a long and fruitful life, Kate is survived by many. She is the loving mother of Elizabeth (Marvin) Turner, Thomas Spicuzza, and Clark (Karrie) Martin; the beloved grandmother of Cole (Emiri) Turner, Westan Turner, Haeden Turner, and Frank Spicuzza; the proud great-grandmother of Rev Ludden Turner whom she adored; and the devoted sister of Robert (Marcia nee Olson) Metcalf. Kate is further survived by other relatives, sacred friends, neighbors who will forever hold her in their hearts, and the hundreds of children whose lives she touched and transformed over the years.

Kate was born on October 14, 1939, in Dodgeville to Thomas and Margaret Metcalf. Kate learned early on that family was one of the cornerstones on which you build your life. Some of Kate’s cherished childhood memories included family gatherings and celebrations that took the Metcalfs to Wyoming Valley in Spring Green. She’d reflect with a broad smile about taking Sunday drives—the wonder of the land, the innocence of childhood-- where she played with her cousins at an old hilltop windmill, and in the springtime, she would pick crocuses.

Kate came from a long line of educators and was taught the importance of getting a good education early on. She was ahead of her time when she initially expressed a desire to be a doctor, an unconventional aspiration for a woman in the 50s and 60s. Eventually, with the encouragement of her family, she decided to continue the family tradition and devoted her time and talents to educating others.

Once Kate made her career choice, she always gave it her all. Her education and teaching career took her to UW-Madison, Washington State, Alaska, and Brookfield, Wisconsin. During this time, she educated many kids, raised her own, and imparted her values of education, integrity, faith, and the love of nature.

A new chapter of Kate's life unfolded in the 1980's. At this time, she learned that a teaching position was opening at the elementary school in Mineral Point – so close to where she had grown up. Memories of so many happy times flooded her, and she leaped at the opportunity to move “back home.” In true “Kate” fashion, she didn't just show up for work every day. Her desire to help kids led her to further her career by becoming a reading specialist, curriculum developer, and, finally, a beloved school principal. During this time, Kate also became reacquainted with her old high school sweetheart, William “Billy” Martin. In time, Billy proposed, and Kate was thrilled to say “yes.” The two spent time in Hollandale and Ridgeway before settling on a lush stretch of land off QQ in Mineral Point, the place Kate called home until her death.

During the last months of Kate's life, her family would encourage her to share memories. She would have “holy moment reflections” about her love of the land, life, and her late husband, Billy – saying, “I remember one night, a late May night, bathed in moonlight and shrouded in the scent of plum blossoms. An image to carry for a lifetime. Dark woods. Brilliant moon, Fragrance, and, above it all...so in love with him.” She reminisced about young love, a piece of land Northwest of Dodgeville, and a place replete with memories, Harker's Creek, saying, “Over there near that split rail fence. The hill drops off to the south once you climb it. That's the spot. So, when I am an old woman, I can still visit here.” And that she did, in her mind, an ongoing testimony to her love of land, place, words, and legacy.

Kate also witnessed many losses in her last few months of life, including the passing of lifelong friends and dear former coworkers. She found comfort in her faith, whispering Psalm 121:1: “I lift up my eyes to the hills---where does my help come from? My help comes from the LORD, the Maker of heaven and earth.”

With deep appreciation and gratitude, Kate's family extends their thanks to the Mineral Point community—especially her neighbors and coworkers—who supported, encouraged, and so loved Kate over the years. They also wish to express a profound “thank you” to Togi—you were Kate's caregiver to the end, but you were more than a caregiver to her; you were also a friend.

In keeping with Kate's wishes, her family will celebrate her life and honor her passing privately.

Kate was not just passionate about education; she loved “her kids.” She had a stockpile of boots, coats, mittens, and snacks in her school office, saying, “Nothing should get in the way of a good education!" If you wish to honor Kate's life and continue the legacy she leaves behind, contributions to Mineral Point School District for the "Kate Martin Educational Needs Fund" would be greatly appreciated in lieu of flowers.

Kate's love of helping kids learn continued almost to the end of her time here on earth. After her retirement, she tutored kids in her home. She would gather her students at her kitchen table, where her words of encouragement would follow the scratch of a pencil, "You got it!" It was at this same table that Kate would dine, often alone, to bow her head.

She would want you to know the ending of Psalm 121: "And the LORD will watch over your life; your coming and going both now...and forevermore."

Amen.

“ I had the honor of spending over two years with Kate, caring for her. She was strong both inside and out — a compassionate woman who knew how to trust and love deeply. She had a special place in her heart for children; her eyes would light up with joy whenever she spoke of them.

I will always remember her sitting in her red chair, smiling gently as she read, surrounded by sunlight in her warm home. The fresh country air, the soft breeze, the flowers, rabbits, and birds — all of it will forever remind me of her.

I am deeply grateful to Beth, Tom, Clark, Marv, Carrie, the grandchildren, Ray, and all of Kate's friends and loved ones for their kindness, support, and open hearts.

*With love,

“ I will always remember her open house hospitality. When Beth and Marvin were married Kate opened up her home and my husband and I were so warmly welcomed. She was beautiful inside and out. She was a lady in all aspects of the word. Beth and Marvin I am so sad to hear of this tremendous loss, I am so happy she was able to see her great grandson, to Cole and Emri and Wes and Hayden you were blessed to have an amazing ing grandmother, share all those wonderful memories. Love you all, my very deepest sympathy 💔 R.I.P. Marilyn Lipson

“ Joni Martin, Kate and I enjoyed many trips to Madison together as we pursued Master's degrees in Educational Administration. We solved world problems, laughed, studied and even got to classes on time. All three of us eventually worked in Administrative roles in schools and remained friends and colleagues. My thoughts are with the family. Rest in peace, Kate. Deb Ivey

“ I'm so sorry to hear about Mrs. Martin. My heart broke when I learned she passed away. I knew her from little on up. Mrs. Martin made every student feel special. She wanted everyone to achieve the most out of every reading class. I loved that she never gave up on anyone. When the weekly lessons were completed in the spring, she sometimes gifted us with a walk in the school woods where she taught us about every plant and its purpose. Her FAVORITE flower in the woods was the tiny yellow buttercup. "And these My Loves are..." Her beautiful smile expressed how much she loved everything that God designed. I loved and appreciated her knowledge. Not only was Mrs. Martin my teacher, but she hired me in the after school program while I was earning my education degree. We had many conversations throughout the years about life, family, education and the Lord. I cherished every moment. I designed her a beautiful ceramic cup, which I decorated with flowers. It was a 'thank you' for being the beautiful and caring person she was and for visiting me after I had my first newborn. I am so honored to call her my friend.

“ My days spent with Kate as a coworker, friend and principal were some very dear to my heart days. Her compassion for the children of Mineral Point Schools has been an inspiration to many, helping them to become successful members of our society. Kate, your kind and caring ways shall be missed. Rest in peace dear friend. Chris Heins

Kate was my principal first and then a lifelong friend. I loved going for walks with her in the country and visiting her in her home. We shared many things in common but especially teaching the young ones of Mineral Point. Thank you, Kate, for being my BFF. I'll always love you. Sue Okas
